Dear Sponsor and Exhibitor,

We are honored to announce the upcoming 20th International Conference on Chiroptical Spectroscopy (CD2025), to be held August 25-28, 2025 at the University of Debrecen, in Debrecen, Hungary. The sessions of the four-day conference aim to bring together leading scientists, young researchers and industry experts to discuss the latest advancements and innovations in the field of chiroptical spectroscopy. Topics consists in but not limited to chiroptical techniques, computational methods, their application on the structural elucidation of natural products, polymers, biopolymers, supramolecular systems, and nanomaterials, applications on kinetics and dynamic systems and on surface chemistry.

The CD2025 is dedicated to the 100-year anniversary of the birth of Professor Koji Nakanishi. Special sessions are planned to celebrate the 100-birthday anniversary and enduring legacy of Prof. Koji Nakanishi, a legendary scientist and inspirational leader in the field of natural products and spectroscopy. The conference also aims to bring together former members of Koji's group and others who respected him to honor his memory. This is the 20th conference in the series, and in 2025, we will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the founding of the CD spectroscopy series by Günther Snatzke and Nina Berova in Sofia, Bulgaria, in 1985. We will honor the organizers of the previous CD meetings in Hungary: the 2nd and 9th International Conferences on Chiroptical Spectroscopy, held in 1987 and 2003. Those organizers were Márton Kajtár, Miklós Hollósi, and Sándor Antus, who have since passed away.

Prof. Márton Kajtár

Prof. Sándor Antus

We are pleased to welcome Ben L. Feringa, Nobel Laureate, and Nicholas A. Kotov, Chirality Medalist, as distinguished speakers at the conference. They will be joined by approximately 30 other renowned researchers in the field who have confirmed their attendance.
